

There is no need for electric utilities to deliver high speed internet connectivity via AC power connection. This service exists via other methods and has a damaging effect due to the interference in the HF amateur bands - it will render them all but useless. Please keep in mind during any emergency situation, ham radio operation network is critical to have in place for necessary communication and assistance.